

TCP is a connection-oriented transport layer protocol that provides reliable delivery.

UDP is a connectionless transport protocol that does not guarantee packet delivery.